

The Daily Courant.

Saturday, November 26. 1720.

London, November 26.

Yesterday arrived the Mails from Holland.

Cadix, October 29.

ON the 23d Instant, our Fleet sailed from this Port, consisting of 4 Ships of War, 40 Transport Ships, and 80 Tartans, having on board 20000 Men, abundance of Provision, and a great Train of Artillery. This Fleet advanced to the Streights Mouth upon the 24th Instant, but the Wind turning contrary, it came back on the 26th in sight of this Port: The Wind came fair on the 27th Instant, and the Fleet sailed again that Day; and as there is no doubt of its having passed the Streights, we impatiently expect the next Letters with an Account of the Success of the beginning of the Expedition. We are still without News from the West-Indies.

Rome, Nov. 9. The Pope was taken very ill on the 3d Instant, which Indisposition of his Holiness caused a mighty Alarm over the whole Palace, and an Express was immediately dispatched to Soriano, to acquaint Cardinal Albani, the Pope's Nephew, with that ill News: But after the Physicians had consulted, and given his Holiness some Remedy, he was pretty well recovered in 2 or 3 Days, and gave Audience on the 6th Instant to an Officer of the Inquisition. On the 5th Instant Cardinal Albani came away Post from Soriano; and Cardinal Giudice returned to Albano, to be present at a Congregation at the Holy Office. A Detachment of Soldiers is ordered from the Fortresses in the Ecclesiastical State to reinforce the Guards posted on the Sea Coasts, for preventing Persons coming to this State from Places suspected of the Plague. Cardinal Cienfuegos has appointed the Abbé Graffi to be his Auditor, who was formerly Auditor to Cardinal Althan in this City.

Warsaw, Nov. 13. The Diet being dissolved on the 5th Instant, 'tis said that the King will appoint another to be held on the 11th of September of the ensuing Year: Yesterday the Council of Senators assembled to deliberate on proper Means for maintaining the publick Tranquillity of this Kingdom, which seems to be threatened with approaching Troubles through the variety of Discontents in the Government, with respect to restoring the Crown-Generals to the Chief Command of the Army. On the 8th Instant arrived here Prince Lubomirski, whom the King had sent to Sweden to Congratulate his Swedish Majesty on his Accession to the Throne; accordingly, the Prince has had the honour of reporting to his Polish Majesty the Success of his Commission. On the 10th Instant Count Edeordy the Imperial Ambassadour made his Publick Entry to this City. Some Advices from Dantzick say, that it was rumoured there that the Czar was upon the point of executing some considerable Design, and that the Muscovite Fleet was at Sea; but both those Rumours are looked upon to be without a real Foundation; as is likewise that other Report of the Czar's being at Sea. The contagious Distemper continues to be rife in the Provinces of Leopold and of Podolia, and in some part of the Palatinate of Cracovia.

Hague, Nov. 20. Upon Information received by their High Mightinesses, that in the last Assembly of the Directors of the West India Company, it had been principally resolved upon, to endeavour to get a Prolongation of the Term of their Grant, and that likewise the Term for Payment of Subscriptions should be rectify'd; their High Mightinesses have thereupon reiterated their Commands to the Company, formerly given, which were, that in their Assemblies they should direct their Affairs for the carrying on their Trade, and the solid Good of the Proprietors. Another Assembly being to be held at Amsterdam, their High Mightinesses are in Expectation of hearing what will be finally concluded upon there.

Notwithstanding the late Order from the States General, for burning the Ship that arrived here lately from Marseilles, and two others from the Mediterranean, yet the above mentioned Admiralty of Amsterdam, who had been charged with the Execution of those Orders, have not executed them, by reason, as 'tis reported, out of Complaisance to the Magistrates of Amsterdam, some Members whereof being concerned in the said Ship; their High Mightinesses are exceedingly offended at this Proceeding, and have demanded that a Deputation be sent them immediately, to give an Account of the Cause of this Disobedience. Their High Mightinesses insisting, that unless very sufficient Excuses are made, their Orders shall instantly be observed without any further Loss of Time. That Deputation is arrived here, as likewise the Deputies from the other Admiralties; notwithstanding this, the Amsterdam Admiralty have asked of their High Mightinesses by Letter, dated the 29th of the last Month, at what Place they will have the said Vessel from Marseilles, and the others from the Mediterranean be burned; seeing that where those Ships are anchored at present, there is no Room for such an Execution, without incurring Damage to the Navigation in the River. The Admiralty likewise represent, that probably those Vessels draw upwards of 16 Feet Water, and though Fire be put to them, they will burn only to the Water Edge, and the Sea penetrating the Ruins, would extinguish the Fire, and carry great Quantity of the undamaged Cargoes to Shore, which might spread the Infection, notwithstanding all the Precautions used by their High Mightinesses to prevent it: And besides, the Admiralty desire to know, where the Persons belonging to the Ships are to be sent to, seeing the States of North Holland have refused to have Barracks built for them upon Wieringen, or in the Fort of the Texel, where all suspected Goods might be exposed to Air. The Admiralty further represents, that unless there be Places appointed for lodging the Persons who come from on board to perform Quarantine, it would do as well to suffer the Ships to perform Quarantine, and the Persons to continue on board under a Guard. And as the Placard of their High Mightinesses of the 18th of September last, the Execution whereof being recommended to the Admiralty, does not require that Ships coming from Provence, Languedoc, or from Places in the Mediterranean should be burnt, the Admiralty say, it is very natural, that as soon as the Pilots shall be informed of the fatal Change of Precautions against the Plague, they will for the future, at all Hazards, forbear entering the Texel, to avoid exposing themselves to utter Ruin. The States of Holland, as well as the States General, deliberate here upon these Representations, as they do also on a Request presented to their Mightinesses by the Owners of the said Ships suspected of the Plague, who pray, that those Ships may neither be burned nor destroy'd, but that they may be permitted to perform Quarantine. In the mean time Orders are given, that no Ship coming from Provence, Languedoc, or from Ports in the Mediterranean, shall be suffered to enter any where but in the Texel.

Dartmouth, Nov. 21. Yesterday came in the St. George of London from Rotterdam for Bourdeaux. The Ships mentioned in my last are still here.

Plymouth, Nov. 22. This Day came in his Majesty's Ship Dunkirk from Lisbon.

Harwich, Nov. 24. On Monday the Fishpool Sloop, belonging to the Royal Fishery, put in here, having lost her Anchors by the violent Storm that happened last Sunday in the Afternoon, in which about 20 Craften bound for Hull, &c. received great great Damage, some losing their Sails and Rigging, and others their Anchors; and several Houses likewise here and the Parts adjacent have been damaged very much by the Storm.

Deal, Nov. 24. The five King's Ships and outward-bound are still here.

London, November 25.

The Squadron under Sir John Norris's Command arrived at Oxford-Nefs on Sunday last, where they met with a very great Storm, but no Damage befel them except the Loss of some Anchors and Cables; so that they set sail on the 22d Instant for the Nore.

London, November 26.

Letters from Scotland by the last Post contradict the Report that the Plague was broke out in the Isle of Man, from whence they have Letters of a very fresh Date, importing that that Place is in perfect Health; and that the Governour had received Orders from the Earl of Derby not to suffer any Ships to come in there till they had performed Quarantine, and that in order to oblige them to it Guards were placed all the Island round, and were upon Duty both Day and Night.
